Oklahoma Congressional Districts—2002–2010

As a result of the 2000 U.S. Census, Oklahoma lost a congressional seat. In 2005 Dan Boren (Second District) remained the only Democrat in the delegation. He serves along with Republicans John Sullivan (First District), Tom Cole (Fourth District), Frank Lucas (Third District), and Ernest Istook (Fifth District).

District maps in this edition of the Oklahoma Almanac depict the U.S. Congressional Districts for the 2002 through 2010 elections. In addition to determining political divisions for the election of officials, these districts also guide executive and legislative branch appointments to state and federal offices and institutions.

United States Senate

Jim Inhofe—Republican. Born in Des Moines, Iowa, on November 17, 1934, Inhofe grew up in Tulsa, Oklahoma, and graduated from Tulsa's Central High School. He received a bachelor's degree in economics from the University of Tulsa in 1973, after serving in the U.S. Army from 1954 to 1956. Inhofe has been a small businessman (working in aviation, real estate, and insurance) for over thirty years. Elected to the Oklahoma House of Representatives in a special election in 1966, Inhofe was later elected to the Oklahoma Senate in 1968 and 1972. In 1978 he was elected mayor of Tulsa, winning re-election to that post in 1980 and 1982. Elected to the U.S. Congress in 1986, he was re-elected in 1988, 1990, and 1992. Inhofe relinquished his congressional seat in 1994 to run for the U.S. Senate, and was elected to fill an unexpired term. He was re-elected to full six-year terms in 1996 and 2002. He serves on the Armed Services and the Environment and Public Works committees. Active in aviation, Inhofe became the only member of Congress to fly around the world, when he recreated Wiley Post's famous trip around the globe. Inhofe, and his wife, Kay, have been married forty-six years. They have four children and twelve grandchildren. # United States Attorneys

David E. O'Meilia—U.S. Attorney for the Northern District of Oklahoma. Born in Ponca City in 1951, O'Meilia is the oldest of seven children of Jeanne O'Meilia and the late Ray O'Meilia. He earned his undergraduate degree in pre-law from Oklahoma State University in 1973, and his Juris Doctor degree from the University of Tulsa College of Law in 1976. O'Meilia began his career in October 1976 as an assistant public defender in Tulsa County. He later became a full-time instructor in the Criminal Justice and Political Science departments at the University of Tulsa for two years. He joined the Tulsa County District Attorney's Office in 1980 as a felony trial attorney. In 1984 he joined a general practice law firm, specializing in civil and criminal litigation. In 1986 he became an assistant U.S. attorney in the Northern District of Oklahoma, assigned to the President's Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force, and later became the lead task force attorney. Upon leaving the U.S. Attorney's Office in 1996, O'Meilia became a shareholder in the Tulsa law firm of Nichols, Wolfe, Stamper, Nally, Fallis, & Robertson, Inc., where he concentrated his practice in civil litigation, specializing in employment discrimination defense. In 1999 O'Meilia joined the law partnership of Lyons, Clark, Danielson, and O'Meilia. Upon the recommendation of Attorney General John Ashcroft, O'Meilia was appointed acting U.S. attorney for the Northern District of Oklahoma on October 5, 2001, and was officially sworn in as U.S. attorney on January 15, 2002. O'Meilia and his wife, Cheryl, have three sons: Matt, Ryan, and Brandt. To contact O'Meilia write 333 W Fourth Street, Tulsa, OK 74103, or call 918/581-7463.

Sheldon Sperling—U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Oklahoma. Sperling is a native Kansan who graduated from Moundridge High School in Kansas. He earned a bachelor's degree in education from Northeastern State College in Tahlequah, Oklahoma, in 1971 and his Juris Doctor degree from the University of Tulsa College of Law in 1979. He worked in private law practice from 1979 to 1982. Sperling served as an assistant district attorney in Wagoner from 1983 to 1985. He has been a federal prosecutor for nearly eighteen years. He began his federal career as an assistant U.S. attorney, first assistant U.S. attorney/criminal chief, and was then named interim U.S. attorney from November 2000 to December 2001. President George W. Bush officially appointed Sperling as U.S. attorney on December 5, 2001. Sperling has been the recipient of numerous awards including a special commendation from FBI Director Louis J. Freeh in February 1998; Director's Award for Superior Performance as an Assistant U.S. Attorney from the Deputy Attorney General, EOUSA Director, and Deputy EOUSA Director on November 17, 1994; numerous special achievement awards from the Department of Justice; special commendation from FBI Director William S. Sessions in 1993; and Meritorious Achievement Award from the South Central Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force on April 28, 1993. Robert McCampbell—U.S. Attorney for the Western District of Oklahoma. McCampbell is a native Oklahoman, born in Oklahoma City. He received his undergraduate degree from Vanderbilt University, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and earned his law degree from Yale Law School. From 1983 to 1987, McCampbell practiced law in Oklahoma City with the firm of Crowe & Dunlevy. In 1987 he became an assistant U.S. attorney for the Western District of Oklahoma where he worked for two years as a drug prosecutor and five years as a white-collar prosecutor. He also served as deputy chief of the Criminal Section. In 1994 McCampbell returned to private practice at Crowe & Dunlevy, where he engaged in civil and criminal litigation in state and federal courts. On August 2, 2001, President George W. Bush nominated McCampbell to be U.S. attorney for the Western District of Oklahoma, and on October 12, 2001, he was confirmed by the U.S. Senate. The Western District of Oklahoma consists of forty counties, and is approximately the western half of the state. Attorney General John Ashcroft appointed McCampbell to the Attorney General's subcommittees on white-collar crime and Native American issues. In addition to practicing law, McCampbell has been active in civic affairs. He has served on the board of directors of various civic organizations including the Public/Private Partnership for Juvenile Justice, the Phi Beta Kappa Association of Oklahoma City, the Citizen's Advisory Group on Juvenile Detention, and the Opportunities Industrialization Center, a job training organization in Oklahoma City. In 1996 McCampbell received the Paragon Award from Leadership Oklahoma City in recognition of his outstanding leadership on juvenile justice issues. In state government, McCampbell served for six years on the board of directors of the Oklahoma Center for Advancement of Science and Technology including serving as chairman of that board from 1999 to 2001. McCampbell and his wife, Donna, have two children—Ann and Ben. To contact McCampbell write 210 W Park Avenue, Suite 400, Oklahoma City, OK 73102, or call 405/553-8700.

Lindell Pearson carries the ball against Louisiana State University in the 1950 Sugar Bowl. The University of Oklahoma blew out the Tigers 35–0 in a game where LSU was accused of spying on the Sooners. It obviously backfired and the outcome of the game remains one of the most lopsided in the history of the New Orleans classic.
